Q1. List five existing design inspirations related to your need finding activity. The relationships can be abstract or concrete. For each, give brief (1-2 sentence) explanations of why they were chosen).

I looked around and found a couple of interesting sites and tools, which were related in some or the other way to the topic of connecting people

Facebook

The first thing that comes in mind when you think about connecting and interacting with people is Facebook. The concept of being in touch with people is really captivating. It is easy to use but it comes with a lots of other features that may result in distractions.

LinkedIn

LinkedIn is a social media networking site that helps people maintain their professional identity and relationships online. LinkedIn is designed to help users network with colleagues and peers, search for jobs, and share professional updates.

WhatsApp

This can be a good tool for staying in touch with people as it gives you the ability to communicate directly with a person over text or calls on their personal phone numbers.

About.me

This is a good platform for creating your online portfolio where you can showcase your skills and other experiences. People can contact you if they need guidance or help in the area which you are expert.

Classmates.com

Classmate lets you search the largest directory of high school and class lists, even search by maiden name but is only limited to American High Schools. You can preview the High school yearbooks and it also lets you connect with alumni from your high school.

Q2. Write down your point of view.

Alumni Network helps us get guidance and help at the various stages during our stay in the college or after the pass out from the college. Great minds think alike - collective minds succeed together and by building an online alumni network we are constructing on that.

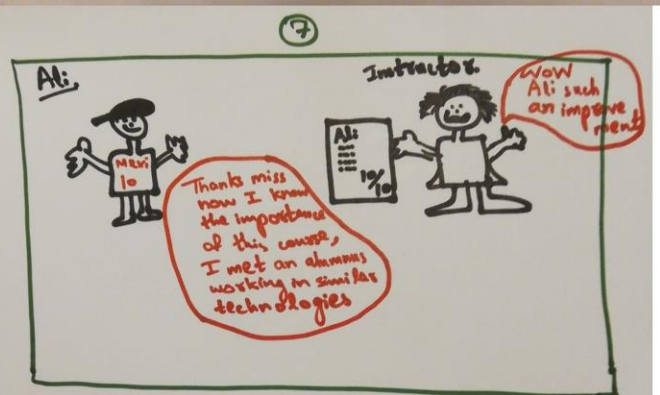

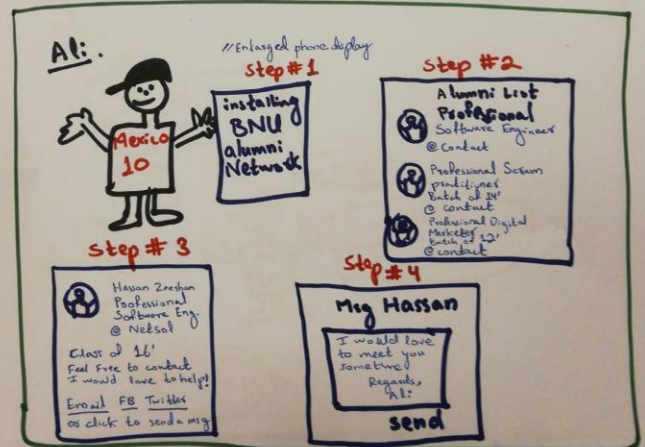

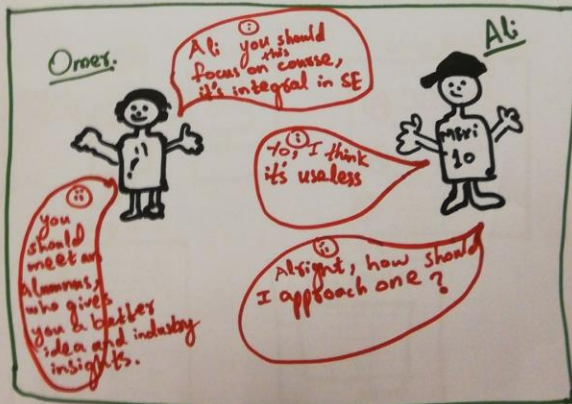

Q3. Paste scans or pictures of two storyboards that you have created below

Storyboard # 1

So, the first Story goes on like, Ali's is not interested in a course and scores poor. Omer suggests to meet an alumnus who could give a better idea about the importance of a course. He suggests Ali Alumni Network portal where could connect with his seniors who are working in the industry. Ali approaches a few alumni and finally get to meet one, the alumni gives the industry insight and help clear Ali's vision about the field. Finally, Ali is now acquainted with the importance of the course, his grades improve greatly.
